

Essay Example:

Apples and Oranges

Have you ever heard someone say, “You’re comparing apples to oranges”? People say that because apples and oranges are very different, even though they are both fruits. They grow on trees, are good for your health, and are loved by many people. People can learn about how apples and oranges are alike and how they are different.

Apples are one of the most common fruits in the world. They can be red, green, or yellow and are usually round with smooth skin. Apples are crunchy and can taste sweet or sour depending on the type. People eat apples raw, bake them in pies, or even make applesauce. You don’t have to peel them to eat them, and they are easy to carry as a snack.

Oranges are also a popular fruit, but they are different from apples. They are always orange and have thick, bumpy skin. Oranges are juicy and sweet with a citrus taste. You have to peel them before you eat them, and they are usually messier than apples. Oranges are great for juice and are full of vitamin C, which helps your immune system.

Even though apples and oranges are both fruits and grow on trees, they are different in many ways. They look, taste, and feel different, but they are both healthy and tasty. Whether you like apples or oranges more, both are great snacks.

Outline Example:

Subject-by-Subject Outline: Apples and Oranges

I. Introduction

A. Apples and oranges are both fruits people love

- B. They are good for you and easy to find
- C. This essay will tell about apples, then oranges, and compare them

II. All About Apples

- A. Come in red, green, or yellow
- B. Crunchy, sweet or sour
- C. Eaten raw, in pies, or made into sauce
- D. Easy to eat without peeling

III. All About Oranges

- A. Always orange with bumpy skin
- B. Juicy and sweet with citrus taste
- C. Must be peeled before eating
- D. Commonly used to make juice

IV. Conclusion

- A. Apples and oranges are both healthy fruits
- B. They are different in taste, texture, and use
- C. Both are great choices for a snack